OVERDOSE OF CHLOROFORM ALMOST RESULTS FATALLY

Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock Mrs. Correll, wife of John Correll, residing seven miles south of Ada, took an overdose of chloroform as a result of which she approached very near death's door. Physicians were hastily summoned and hurried to Mr. Carroll's home and by hard work for an hour or two she was revived and is reported today as doing well, with early recovery in sight.

This afternoon, just before the finishing touches were put on the paper the editor blew in from Hobart. He has been too busy to get into the run of things since then, but presumes the readers of the paper have enjoyed his four days absence fully as much as he did. The other Ada people attending the two Woodmen gatherings at Hobart, will reach home some time tomorrow.

W. K. CHANEY SUING WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH

Judge Brown of the justice court today heard the suit of W. K. Chaney vs. Western Union Telegraph Co., Mr. Chaney charging neglect on the part of the telegraph company in delivering a message to New York to sell 200 bales of cotton and alleging that in failing to serve him promptly he lost $125. He asks for damages in that amount and costs. Judge Brown had not rendered a decision at the hour of going to press.

WILSON MAKES APPEAL FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

Washington, March 26.—President Wilson today issued the following appeal to the Nation to help the sufferers in the Ohio and Indiana floods. "The terrible floods in Ohio and Indiana have assumed the proportions of a National calamity. The loss of life and the infinite suffering involved prompt me to issue an earnest appeal to all who are able, in however small a way, to assist the labors of the American Red Cross to send contributions at once to the Red Cross at Washington, or to the local treasurers of the society. We should make this a common cause. The needs of those upon whom this sudden and overwhelming disaster has come should quicken everyone capable of sympathy and compassion to give immediate aid to those who are laboring to rescue and relieve.

"WOODROW WILSON." President Wilson also sent the following telegram to both Gov. Ralston at Indianapolis, and Gov. Cox at Columbus, Ohio.

"I deeply sympathize with the people of your state in the terrible disaster that has come upon them. Can the Federal Government assist in any way?"

J. B. Christensen, superintendent of the United States Express Co., with headquarters at Oklahoma City, was in the city this afternoon on matters pertaining to the business of the company.

houses have already been burned and there appears to be no hope of stopping the flames.

Dayton, Ohio, March 26.—How great a toll the deluge of Dayton had taken seemed tonight almost a matter of conjecture but acting on stories brought by survivors from the stricken districts, the emergency committee ordered a large number of coffins for immediate delivery.

The Great Miami river, swollen to a width heretofore unknown and running with a terrific current, barred the way to specific information of the number of dead. While thousands of persons still were marooned in houses and on opportune roofs in the central portion of the town, yet only a few corpses had been recovered, and it was believed that in the northern section of the submerged city, to which rescuing parties had been unable to penetrate would be found the greatest loss of life. At 6 o'clock this evening J. H. Miller, secretary of the

It was not for a long time afterward that the report was corrected and something like order restored.

Tiffin City of Desolation.

Tiffin, Ohio, March 26.—Death and intense suffering have marked the great flood which has swept clean the Sandusky valley. Tiffin is a city of desolation. Half of this city is under water. Fire Chief Albert Harris estimates the loss of life at fifty.

Dozens have been carried to death in the treacherous currents.

Great Loss of Life Indicated.

South Bend, Ind., March 26.—Twelve bodies were recovered in a single house in the southern part of Uru this afternoon. This was taken to indicate that the loss of life in that section of the city was great as it was there that dwellings were completely submerged before the occupants could vacate.

"It is impossible to tell how many lives were lost at Peru," said the telephone message which brought the information to South Bend.

It was reported that six survivors were suffocated in the overcrowded courthouse. The weather has turned severely cold, adding to the misery of the unsheltered. The flood is falling rapidly.

board of health, estimated that the death list would reach 800.

While the flood steadily receded this afternoon, the terrific current retarded rescue work, and a cold, smarting rain added to discomforts of the already overburdened storm victims.

Expert oarsmen, who braved the tide in the business section of the submerged city this afternoon, came back nerve-racked to relate narratives of pitiable appeals made to them by hundreds marooned in upper floors that threatened the structure's foundations. The dark colors in the narrative were lightened here and there by stories of bravery exhibited by many of the flood's prisoners.

Wild Panic in Columbus.

Columbus, Ohio, March 26.—A wild panic was caused in this city late today when patrol wagons dashed through High street, warning people to flee for their lives. The police had received a report that the great storage dam, which furnishes the city with its water supply had broken and was sweeping down upon the city Superintendent Joyner of North Carolina is making a strong plea for better educational facilities for that state. Among other things he urges that women be made eligible to serve on school boards, in order that the schools may have the benefit of their education. He declares: "By nature and temperament and because of their strategic position in the home and in the training of childhood women are vitally concerned and deeply interested in the work of the schools."

With weather like we have had of late it will be some time yet until the season of howling loud and straw hats will swoop down upon us.

Style cuts some odd capers. Suppose this morning a man had come to town attired in real winter garb, with overcoat and gloves, and topped off with a nice, new, airy looking straw hat—what would the average citizen have thought of it? And yet some of the young ladies were thus attired.

The directors and members of the Ada Commercial club, like all other citizens of our town, are anxious to locate any kind of an industry that would tend to build up Ada, but we have in our farming lands a field for

Not every boy or girl has an opportunity or money to go to college—yet the desire for knowledge is ever increasing.

labor that is of momentous importance; a field which, if developed, would yield our community handsome returns on the time and money spent. Agriculture is the foundation of all wealth, the basis upon which all values are reckoned, and when the farms and gardens and orchards of Pontotoc county are made to yield the crops they should yield, the agricultural interests will be a financial backbone that will rank in importance with any pay-roll institution this town could ever hope to secure. And the Commercial Club can greatly aid in bringing about these conditions

Two Positions Unsettled

Who will make the second base and shortstop positions on the Normal baseball team? This is the question that everybody is asking everybody else and everybody else is replying that he'll just be durned if he knows. And that is just about the real status of the case. There are about a dozen boys out there, and either of the dozen can play either of these positions in such a way that makes Johnny Evers, whom very few people ever heard of, and Joe Tinker, whom even few have heard of look like ten cents.

Just for example, take Paul Young. Now Paul is just a kid, that's a fact; but you must remember that kids sometimes can cover a big territory and that is just what Paul is doing. He plays second base, first base, shortstop and right field all at one and the same time. Fast? Why, he is so fast that you just don't know where to find him, unless you happen to see him.

Then as as another example, consider Ralph McMillan. Ralph is not the slowest person in this country, if you just happen to think about the matter in that particular light. He works even better on short than he does on second. From present appearance of things, it looks as though he is going to simply pick that position up, put it way down in his jeans and tie it with a string, Ralph would do this very thing if—

Now that is a mighty big IF, and it includes about four or five fast men. There is Rucker who is fast, hits well, and can steal bases more easily than Jesse James could steal money or the negro preacher can steal chickens.

Then to there is Reed, who has had a hard time trying to keep his shoulder, knee and the rest of his body in playing condition. While he is temporarily out of the game, he is to be considered in the final reckoning.

Roy Robinson and Frank Jones both are capable of holding down either of these positions also, and they would like to show the people a thing or two around the second sack.

The great trouble of most of these tsars of no small magnitude is the very small drawback of not being able to connect the willow stick with the mysterious slants of some of the opposing pitchers. Young has been hitting very well, but the others need to improve in this respect. However, all are showing marked improvement daily along this line.

Railroad Crew of '73 to Banquet

Frankfort, Ind., March 27:—It will be forty years tomorrow since the first train on the Toledo, St. Louis and Western (the Clover Leaf) railroad made the trip from Kokomo to Frankfort. The five men who were most intimately connected with the initial trip have arranged to hold a banquet here tomorrow night in celebration of the anniversary. They are Wesley Kemp, of Frankfort, who was the engineer on the first trip; E. H. Whitaker, of Frankfort, the road's first fireman; J. P. Gaddis, of Frankfort, who was the conductor; Harvey Armantrout, of Indianapolis, who was the first brakeman, and Daniel Comstock, of New York who supervised the building of the road.

Why He Is Known.

The class in ancient history was reciting. "Now, Harry, can you tell me who Nebuchadnezzar was?" asked the teacher. "Nebuchadnezzar," answered the boy, right off the bat, "was the greatest of the Babylonian kings, and for his connection with the Hebrews he got a write-up in the Bible."

CARNEGIE LIBRARY QUESTION AGAIN UP TO CITY

Ada citizens now have an opportunity to do something definite on the Carnegie library proposition. Mrs. Tom Hope has a letter from the Carnegie Library Association in which they renew their offer to donate the necessary funds if Ada will support the institution. The proposition is that the association will give our town $12,500 to build the library, provided the town will guarantee to put up ten percent, or $1250 annually to maintain it.

We are reliably informed that the city commissioners favor the deal and will vote funds to meet the requirements.

At their next meeting the commercial club directors will likely pass a resolution endorsing this move, and offer their services for the furtherance of the cause.

Live Not for Self.

To man it is said—you do not live for yourself. If you live for yourself you shall come to nothing. Be brave, be just, be pure, be true in word and deed; care not for your life, care only for what is right. So, and not other wise, it shall be well with you.—Erouda.

Many Have Wondered.

VANOSS

Our Easter Program Sunday was certainly a success and was enjoyed by everyone present. The welcome address was delivered by Mrs. Templeman and was excellent. But not least were the little folks in their drills and pieces rendered. They showed that their efficient teachers had done their part in training them for the work. Parents are justly proud of their efficiency in being able to render such a program. Rev. Hendrix of Ada delivered two fine lectures, one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon.

W. J. Standridge and T. A. Anderson were in Stratford last week. Mr. Wilson was prospecting for a real estate location in Vanoss and thinks he will locate here in the near future. There is an excellent opening at this place for him.

Interest is growing in our literary society and our young people are showing what they can do in the way of entertaining. Some of our greatest men have had their beginning in the little debating society, Lincoln, Andrew Jackson and many others have emanated from the rural school debating society. A small beginning often means the sharpening of the appetite for the luxuries of life in after days and makes us appreciate what we may attain in later days. Isn't this fearful weather for the 26th day of March? Snowing just like it was January. This makes us feel like the gloom of dependency hang over us. —CITIZEN.

Economical Ironing

To iron economically you must not waste heat.

Ironing with ordinary flat irons is very wasteful of heat; most of the heat goes up the kitchen chimney; a lot of it is wasted in charring the ironing pad
and in scorching the clothes.
Ironing with a

is quite different—all the heat is in the iron ready to go into the pieces ironed instead of gois wasted.

To use only the amount of heat

goods is real economy.

ADA PEOPLE HONORED

AT W. O. W. HEAD CAMP

At the meeting of the W. O.
W. head camp at Hobart, Byron Norrell was placed on the committee on resolutions; Mrs. J. W.
Barron was elected secretary of the Woodmen Circle State Organization and Mrs. E. T. Wetherington was appointed judge of the ritualistic work.

The News editor returned this afternoon from Hobart, and just before going to press adds this postscript to the above. J. W. Barron was elected head banker of the W. O. W. by a vote of three to one, his opponent being a man from Muskogee. The Ada delegation ably assisted by the delegates from other camps in Pontotoc county put up a hard fight for Mr.
Barron, and things were soon coming his way, only one other officer being elected by a greater majority, and he was an old timer who knew all the ropes.

In addition to the above, W. O.
Pratt of Tulsa was appointed a member of the log rolling committee.
A more extended account of the meeting will appear in tomorrow's paper.

LAST WORD IN PLUM PUDDING

As it is Made in England, the Real Home of This Somewhat Indigestible Dainty.

Two pounds of beef suet, 2 pounds bread flour, 2 pounds sugar, 2 pounds seeded raisins, 2 pounds currants, 1/2 pound citron. Mix with water, milk or fruit sirup. Chop and shred the suet (I put it through the meat chopper), and mix it thoroughly with the sifted flour, in which has been sprinkled a tablespoon of salt, then add the sugar. The fruit is added next and then the wetting, which you must use sparingly, only enough to make a batter thin enough to just drop from the spoon slowly. Put in dish and cover with coarse white cloth loosely, having first wet cloth in boiling water and dredged with flour. Tie the cloth securely, and drop the pudding into boiling water to cover, and keep covered with water and boiling for at least four hours, or six hours is better. This recipe can be halved or quartered. I usually put mine into pint bowls instead of making one large pudding, as I like to remember my friends at this time of a year with a plum pudding
"for two." And I find the pudding is appreciated fully as much as other gifts would be, for they all know that I have no time to make or select other things, and they seem to think the hardest part of making the pudding is the boiling. Well, that is the secret of it. I boil mine at first about three hours (evenings). Take off and cover kettle after removing puddings, and the next evening I boil them a couple

MACARONI OF GREAT VALUE

Modern Cooks Would Do Well to Avail Themselves of the Advantages of This Highly Nutritious Dish.

Macaroni is one of the foodstuffs of which the average cook does not avail herself nearly so much as she might do to advantage. It may be served as a savory or as a sweet, farinaceous dish, and it possesses the advantage of containing sufficient nutriment to qualify it to take the place of a meat dish when desirable. In this latter case it should be noted that, while macaroni is well supplied with nitrogenous and starchy elements, it is lacking in fat, and it is consequently well to enhance its value by the addition of butter, cream, cheese or a little good stock of gravy. Macaroni should always be plunged into plenty of boiling water to which there has been added a little salt. Continue the boiling for from 30 to 40 minutes, or until the macaroni is tender, when the tubes should have become double their original size. Drain the macaroni and plunge it into cold water for a moment, to prevent breaking and cohesion, and it is then ready to be dressed for the table. It is to be regretted that macaroni does not enter more largely into the dietary of the working classes of America, not less because of its cheapness and the ease with which it may be prepared than because of its nourishing qualities.

Fiber Cutter for Steaks.

Meat, as everyone knows, has its tough fibers and sinews, some of them quite thick. By the use of the fiber cutter these fibers and sinews are cut thoroughly into bits, at the same time making the meat porous. The juices circulating through these pores make the meat perfectly tender, allowing it to cook quickly and with fine flavor. This applies to porterhouse and loin steaks with their finer fibers,
as well as to the cheapest round steaks with their heavier, coarser fibers. Steaks treated in this way remain flat while cooking and do not curl.

Cabbage-Beet Salad.

Chop cabbage fine. Pour over it the following dressing and serve in cups made from hollowing out cooked beets. Serve on plates garnished with pretty lettuce leaves. Dressing: Scald half cupful milk in double boiler; add half teaspoonful corn starch, mixed with a little water; cook a few minutes; then stir in two well-beaten egg yolks and cook until thick and creamy; add four tablespoonfuls vinegar, one tablespoonful of minced onion, a bay leaf, salt and pepper.
Pour over cabbage while hot. Chill.
Place in beets just before serving.

Dark Fruit Cake.

Half cupful of butter, three-quarters cup brown sugar, three-quarters cup raisins seeded and cut into pieces;
three-quarters cup currants, half cup citron thinly sliced and cut in strips, half cup molasses, two eggs, quarter
cupful milk, two cups pastry flour, half teaspoonful soda, one teaspoonful cinnamon, half teaspoonful alspice, half teaspoonful mace, quarter teaspoonful cloves, half teaspoonful lemon extract. Bake in deep cake pans one and a quarter hours, moderate oven.

Homely Hint.

Never clean rare old laces with benzine, as is the common practice. Benzine, which is a great grease remover, will take the natural oil out of the lace and make the threads brittle, stiff and liable to break into holes.

Warm Bowl First.

Before creaming butter and sugar,
warm the bowl in the oven or fill it with warm water, empty and wipe dry.
This expedites the process and the heat is not so great as to melt the butter—the danger that is run if the butter is first warmed in the oven.

Blood Poison On The Run

Remarkable Remedy That Drives Every Particle of Poison Completely Out of Your Entire System.

It is simply astonishing the way contagious germs scatter and leave your blood clean and pure.

Poison in the blood used to break out into the most unsightly sores, boils, abscesses and ulcers, but since the introduction of S. S. S. there is no more trouble. And even if it is only a slight attack it would eventually mean loss of hair, loose teeth, sore gums, mucous patches, copper blotches and the most intense degree of agony, if S. S. S. were not used. Of course some cases of Contagious Blood Poison do not exhibit the extreme superficial effect but the trouble is they are apt to do so in just a day. The eyesight fades, the hair falls out, the bones become ulcerated, a thousand and one fierce, unsightly symptoms ensue and then there can be no question as to the nature of the disease.

It is very unfortunate that so many sufferers lose all nerve, all self control, and the first thing they do is to throw themselves into the clutches of those who take all their money, fill their veins and arteries with Mercury, Iodide of Potash, Arsenic or other mineral poisons and practically wreck their lives.

S. S. S. will give your blood a complete bath, purify it, overcome the danger done by mineral drugs, soothe and strengthen your stomach and in every way restore you completely. Your blood will be rich, red and pure and will stand the most rigid blood test. Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store and begin to cure yourself at once. For a book on Blood Poison or for private advice, write to the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Co., 146 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. This is one of the greatest private laboratories in the world.

NOEMAL NEWS.

(By Moke Cassidy.)

This weather doesn't look like baseball. Coach Little declares, however, that there will be a game with the Elks as scheduled even if they have to pitch snow balls.

A phone message from Pres. Briles who is at Oklahoma City affords the information that there is no doubt as to the appropriation for East Central. Alonzo George and Virgil Riddle who will represent East Central against Tahlequah normal in the triangular debate Friday night left with Miss Helen Myers, reader, and Miss Clarke, chaperone, this morning on the Katy. At assembly this morning the students started them off with 15 rabs for the debaters and 9 rabs for the reader.

Don't forget the debate and reading contest at the Normal Friday night. A more extended notice will appear in tomorrow's issue.

Mr. Pentem will leave tomorrow to address the Seminole County Teachers' Association Saturday morning.

A Canada goose has been added to the specimens in the biological museum.

um. The goose was killed by Byron Sledge and Mr. Lilly and was mounted by Mr. MacMillan.

During a hot snow-ball game at noon Guy Wilbanks was hit in the eye with a "fast hard one" and consequently got it shut. Perhaps this will be the last one this year. But we have said the same thing the last three.

Just eight more days until the baseball team goes to Sulphur to play the school for the deal.

The senior class who are publishing the annual this year, received their last lot of pictures this morning from Mr. Stall. The class have had over one hundred pictures made for the annual. Mr. Stall has done all of the work for the annual, and as he has never had to ask for a second sitting the class is deeply indebted to him for the work. All of the work is ready for publication and will be sent to the publishers as soon as the contracts are signed.

The Good Die Young.

Beside the road that leads to town the thistle thrives apace, and if you cut the blamed thing down, two more will take its place. The sunflowers flourish in the heat that kills the growing oats; the weeds keep living when the wheat and corn have lost their goats. The roses wither in the glare that keeps the prune alive; the orchards fail of peach and pear while cheap persimmons thrive. The good and useful men depart too soon on death's dark trip; they just have fairly made a start when they must up and skip. A little cold, a little heat will quickly kill them off; a little wetting of their feet, a little hacking cough; they're tender as the blushing rose of evanescent bloom; too quickly they turn up their toes and slumber in the tomb. And yet the world is full of scrubs who don't know how to die, a lot of peacynish dubs, who couldn't, if they'd try. Year after year, with idle chums, they hang around the place until at last their age becomes a scandal and disgrace. And thus the men of useful deeds die off, while no-goods thrive, you can't kill off the human weeds, nor keep the wheat alive.

WALT MASON.

HOW BILLY MADE GOOD

BY Z. M. INGRAM.

"No, Billy," said Molly, with a despondent shake of her brown head, as they paused at the crowded street crossing. I have interred my very last hope. Had I won in the contest, as I was sure I would, mother could have left town for the summer and boarded with the old couple living in her childhood homestead. We would have rented out our little house here and I'd have boarded. But as it is, it's the 'din and heat of the town, and our dull, stuffy little house for mother."

"Molly, I wish I could help you. You know I—"

"When you don't even help yourself! Billy, I wish you wouldn't waste breath talking like that. Your aunt tells mother and me how your Uncle William keeps you up, and how you are fast drifting into a reckless young spendthrift."

"Why, Molly!" Gleason's brown eyes showed surprise and resentment. "I draw a really decent salary every month, and no one stays closer to his job than I."

"It isn't what you make, Billy," said Molly, "but what you save that determines your ability."

She paused to snatch a small child from beneath a heavy cab. After restoring the baby to its mother she continued:

"Ah, Billy! Billy! you simply won't be a man. Don't you know that to succeed in any undertaking one must first make good? Mother couldn't trust me to you, boy."

Gleason caught a faint note of tender regret in her voice. He stopped instantly and grasped her arm. "Say, Molly," he said eagerly, "will you promise to marry me if I make good—that you shall call good?"

Molly looked up and down the dull street and sighed. Then she promised.

Two weeks passed, and one day Molly called Gleason over the telephone and demanded his immediate presence at her house. She greeted him in a state of ecstasy. "Billy, I just couldn't wait longer to tell you," she bubbled, thrusting a letter into his hand. "There, read that!"

San Antonio, Tex., May 4.
Miss Molly A. Meylan,
Dallas, Texas.

My Dear Miss Meylan:

Two weeks ago while my wife and I were passing through Dallas, you heroically saved our child from death. We feel that we owe you something beside the deep thankfulness in our hearts, and after learning your name, and that you are self-supporting, we have deposited for you in the First National bank, Dallas, Tex., the sum of ($500) five hundred dollars, which we beg you to accept as a small remuneration for your noble deed. You need not reply, as we are traveling and would probably not receive your letter.

Most humble yours,
CLARA and HAROLD McKIM.

"Whew-w!" whistled Gleason, "but I call that some luck! Wish I'd saved that kid!"

A month later Gleason went up to the farm and escorted Molly home. At the gate she stopped, with a puzzled look at the house.

"Billy," she said, facing him, "what does this mean?"

"Never mind," Gleason laughed, leading the way up the walk; "I will explain later."

At the door a woman in white cap and apron met them and directed them into the little parlor.

"Come and see how you like things; then I'll explain," said Gleason, still leading the way.

They went through the few rooms, so wonderfully changed with large open windows, occasionally a new article of furniture, bright, fresh walls and floors, and out upon the wide, cool new porches.

"It won't be quite so stuffy now, Molly, do you think? Sit here in the swing and I'll tell you about it." He took his billbook out of his pocket and, selecting a paper, gave it to her.

It was a bank deposit slip and showed a credit of $500 in favor of Molly A. Meylan, by W. R. Gleason.

"I've got one just like it," said Molly.

"Are you sure? Look again."

"Oh, I see! Mine doesn't have 'By W. R. Gleason' on it. What is it on there for, Billy?"

"Molly, there weren't any McKims. You saved one of the butcher's kids here in town. I hate to tell you, dear."

Molly's eyes lighted with understanding. "And it was you who deposited the money for me, Billy?"

"Yes, and had a friend in San Antonio write you that letter. You see, I wanted to help you, Molly, and you wouldn't let me, so I had to resort to stratagem."

"But where did you get the money?"

"I have been carefully saving it up for the past three years in the hope of your marrying me. I find it pays a fellow to economize in the beginning of his life."

"But your aunt said—" began Molly.

"Oh, don't worry about what Uncle Billy's wife said. Your old professor being her brother had a great deal to do with her tales of me. But tell me, Molly, how do you like the house?"

Her blue eyes were gleaming tenderly. "Billy, I've been cruel to you! Won't you forgive me?"

"Have I—have I made good, Molly?"

"Made good, you great big man! It's what I call best!" Then she looked at him shyly. "The only way I can think to thank you is to ask you to share all my splendid happiness, Billy. I promised, and I always make my words good. Oh, won't mother be proud of you!"

Five in Bank of England.
The first fire within memory occurred at the Bank of England, London, a few days ago. The fire broke out in the southeastern portion of the building. The flooring and joisting were considerably damaged. The outbreak was discovered by the Bank of England authorities, and subdued by their own appliances in 30 minutes. A lieutenant and a dozen men of the Irish Guards on duty at the bank, with fixed bayonets, assisted the police in keeping the crowd back from the building.

Look Upward.

By continually looking upward our minds will themselves grow upwards; and, as a man, by indulging in habits of scorn and contempt for others, is sure to descend to the level of what he despises, so the opposite habits of admiration and enthusiasm for excellence impart to ourselves a portion of the qualities we admire. Here, as in everything else, humility is the surest path to exaltation.—Phillips Brooks, D. D.

Simple Request.

An Irish conductor on the Payne avenue line was trying to make room for more passengers in his car during the rush hours the other night. As reported by a more or less truthful witness, this is what he said: "Fill him in front please move up so that him behind c'n take th' places av him in front, an' lave room fr him that's neither in front nor behind!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Jay Walking."

"Jay walking" is a recognized form of walking, at any rate in the south, where a person who was addicted to it met his death, and the coroner's report used this phrase to describe what the man was doing. It appears that the "jay walker" is a walker who cuts across corners and goes across the street anywhere and at any angle, instead of making use of the crossing.

Always Pays to Be Pleasant.

The woman who has formed the habit of saying pleasant things and letting everything that is unpleasant pass without comment is in a position to pour oil on the troubled waters of both social and business life. She is the type that gets the most out of life because everyone instinctively turns the best side to her.

One Distinct Drawback.

Chinese history tells us that the Sung dynasty, 1000 A. D., brought the language to a point where it was "an effective instrument for expressing the national mind." Unfortunately, it loses its effect when only a very few people in a nation of 450,000,000 can understand what "the national mind" has to express.

Five Visit "Garden of Eden."

It is said that hardly more than a dozen white travelers in a year visit the Garden of Eden, which is situated in Turkish Arabia, and is too inaccessible to attract any but the most courageous tourists. But perhaps people stay away from fear of being disappointed when they should see it.

Thoughts on Life.

"Life is silly—that is, not life, but the way we live it." Mrs. Lethbury was a woman most of whose opinions were her own. She was proud of their age and saw no reason for discarding them while they were still serviceable.—The Mission of Jane.

Lawyer's Raiment Too Gaudy.

Proceedings at the Durban, South Africa, circuit court were recently suspended for half an hour while the advocate-general went home to change his waistcoat, the judge having objected to the fancy pattern of the one he was wearing.

Limit as a Tightwad.

Pendennis—"Who is the meanest man you know?" Warrington—"Old Closefist. Whenever there is a crowd at the railway booking office, he always gets on the outside, so as to be the last to part with his money."

Anxious Moments.

Speaking of anxious moments (although nobody was), there are those when you can't tell from what the toastmaster is saying whether he is introducing you or the other fellow.

Remembered.

Teacher—"Do you know, Tommy, when shingles first came into use?" Tommy—"I think when I was between five and six years old, ma'am."—New York Evening Post.

Seemingly Good Evidence.

"Is your son happily married?" "Yes, I'm afraid he is. I've done my best to convince him that she isn't worthy of him, but he won't believe me."

By Lucas.

Write me as one who loves his fellowmen, but is very easily bored by them.—London Lavender, by E. V. Lucas.

So Free With Them.

If people always kept their promises they wouldn't have time to do anything else.

To Promote Southern Agriculture

New Orleans, La., March 27.—The presence of representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture and other agricultural experts of national reputation at the opening here today of the conference of Agricultural Commissioners of the Southern States, lent added dignity to a gathering, the importance of which to the entire South is second to none. The purpose of the conference, which will continue in session until the end of the week is to perfect a permanent organization that will work along all possible lines for the promotion of the agricultural interests of the South.

The states represented at the conference are fifteen and include Texas, Tennessee, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi,

THE BIRTH OF AN IDEA.
Six or eight years ago the business men of Henderson, Ky., the metropolis of a large but lagging agricultural district, organized a commercial club and set out to make their town a young Pittsburg. They proclaimed Henderson's advantages on billboards and sent their cleverest talkers to interview capitalists in the large cities. But months and years slipped by, and scarcely any new factories were built. It took these men a long time to realize that they were wasting much precious time in misdirected effort. But at last came an inspiration. The progressive members of the club met the other day and resolved themselves into a crop improvement association, opened the membership books to everybody that would pay the annual dues of one dollar, and hired a farm expert by the year. The idea became popular with the farmers who will control the policies of the organization. The Chicago Board of Trade became interested in the experiment and agreed to contribute $2,000 to help pay the first two years' expenses; and the Department of Agriculture pay $50 a month of the expert's salary. The trained agriculturist will make laboratory tests of soils and dairy products, conduct practical demonstrations on farms, and give free advice to all who ask for it—in fact, do anything he sees fit for the promotion of better farming. The idea is a splendid one. It is based on the sound, fundamental truth that the soil is the source of new wealth. Most commercial clubs spend their energy and money trying to get factories away from other cities.—Collier's.

Oklahoma, Kentucky, Florida Louisiana and Alabama.

The visitors were welcomed by Gov. Hall of Louisiana and E. O. Bruner, state commissioner of agriculture. Following the adjournment of the conference the commissioners will make a tour of the rich agricultural districts of Louisiana, inspecting some of the big drainage projects under way and the progress that is being made by Louisiana farmers in the direction of crop diversification.
